

Anti-Bribery & Corruption Policy

Introduction

The Bribery Act 2010 came into force in July 2011 and regulates how businesses conduct their activities in the UK and overseas.

Where an individual is found guilty of an offence under the Act they can receive a prison sentence of up to 10 years and a fine of up to £5,000. Companies can receive unlimited fines.

This Policy applies to all staff, clients and contractors.

Statement of Intent

Axcis Education aims to ensure that the legislation, government guidance and associated best practice is adhered to at all times in the course of undertaking its business activities.

Axcis Education will fulfil its obligations through the adoption of this Policy, communicating it to staff, monitoring any incidents of non-compliance and ensuring that any potential breaches are investigated and the appropriate action is taken.

Procedures

A bribe is defined as a financial advantage or other reward that is offered to, promised to, given to, or received by an individual or Company to induce or influence that individual or Company to perform its public or corporate functions or duties in an improper manner (i.e. not in good faith, not impartially, or not in accordance with a position of trust).

Under the Bribery Act 2010 it is a criminal offence for:

- a Company, employee or associated person (which includes consultants, agents, contractors or temporary staff) acting for, or on behalf of, the Company to offer, promise or give a bribe;
- a Company employee or associated person acting for, or on behalf of, the Company to request, receive or agree to receive a bribe whether or not they actually receive the bribe;
- a Company employee or associated person acting for, or on behalf of, the Company offering, to promise or give a bribe to a foreign public official with the intention of influencing that official in the performance of his/her duties to gain an advantage; and
- a Company failing to prevent bribery by its employees or associated persons acting for, or on behalf of the Company.

Axcis Education has put in place a procedure to ensure that it complies with the provisions of the Bribery Act 2010 and that its business activities are at all times conducted ethically and professionally (see Gifts Report Form below).
